GEISKING HELD AS SLAYER OF "JAKE" LINGLE

Arrested in Louisville, Ky., On

DENIES MURDER

Brother Wanted in Indiana Is Also Captured.

Ted Geisking, arrested here Monday as a vagrant, today admitted his identity to George Williams, Chicago detective.

However, Geisking denied that he murdered Alfred J. Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, or knew

Held in custody on a charge of murder a man believed to be Ted Geisking, suspected slayer of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tribune reporter, was in a detective bureau cell here today awaiting identification by Chicago authorities.

With the man believed to be Geisking was a companion whom authorities have identified as his brother, Alex, who is sought in Indiana for a series of crimes. The suspects gave their names as Emerald and Stanley Harris.

The pair were arrested on suspicion when they arrived in Louisville in a roadster bearing Georgia license plates.

Inquiry in Chicago revealed that an Emerald Harris had operated a saloon there until the assassination of Lingle. The saloon was abruptly closed when Lingle was killed and its owner vanished.

The arrest of the supposed Geis-king and his brother led to the arrest of two women, one them identified as Geisking's bride. She gave her name as Mrs. Emerald Harris. They were taken in custody at a river camp and were released before police identified the men in connection with the Lingle murder.

After recognizing a picture of Geisking as one of the men held in custody, the chief of detectives here found a finger print record which was identical to the prisoner measurements of the prisoner. The record was that of one
"Theodore Geisking" who was arrested here on October 22, 1925 on a charge of operating a liquor truck.

Geisking's real identification was made in time to prevent his release on a writ when bonds of $250 were produced to satisfy the vagrancy court. He was hastily booked on the murder charge.

Geisking on Sunday eluded arrest in London, Ky., when officers ambushed four liquor hi-jackers.
Geisking fought a running gun battle and escaped while his companions surrendered.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—James
"Red" Forsythe, sought for several months as a suspect in the Lingle murder, was held at the detective bureau today. He satisfied authorities that he was at home sick in bed the day Lingle was killed, according to Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney.

Although released from suspicion in the slaying of the Tribune reporter, Forsythe will be booked for vagrancy and arraigned before Municipal Judge John H.
Lyle, known for his stiff senti-ences to gangsters.

Move To Take Children of Man Who Made Brew

The above photo, left to right, shows August, 11; Irma, 10; Charlotte, 5; Mrs. Anna DeBlock; Mary, 14, and Germaine, 9, as they read the predicament of Simon DeBlock (insert) of Batavia, Ill., husband and father, while he is in jail for making home brew. DeBlock was fined $500 and sentenced to serve six months behind the bars. Unless he can raise the money to pay the fine, he will have to work it out at the rate of $1.50 a day. Now a move is on to take away his children on the ground that a home where the prohibition law is violated is not a fit one for children.

TWO CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZE

Two But Is Unable To Reach Others.

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 16.—Two small children were burned to death early today and their father severely burned in rescuing two others from their flaming home south of this city.

The dead are: Jeanette Martin, 6;
and David Martin, 4.

The father of the dead children, Clarence Martin, 32, carried Juniata, 9, and Irving, 11, from the burning home. Both he and Juniata were reported badly burned.

Martin, whose wife was visiting relatives, fell asleep in a chair after starting a fire in the kitchen range, police said they learned. He awoke to find the house filled with smoke and flames.

Dashing into a bedroom he rescued two of the children but was unable to bring out the other two.

was being held here today following his arrest on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the fatal injury of his friend, Claude
B. Petty, 36, of Covington, Ky.

Petty was injured fatally when the car in which he was riding with Wahle skidded and crashed into two other machines here.

Petty was thrown from the machine by the impact of the colli-

THIRD YACHT RACE IS OFF

Heavy Fog and Bad Weather Causes Postponement By Officials.

ABOARD U. S. S. KANE, OFF
NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 16.—The third of the international yacht races between the defender Enterprise and the Challenger Shamrock V was officially called off today on account of the heavy fog and generally unfavorable weather.

The race committee conferred through the morning and finally decided that the low visibility and lack of wind precluded any contest today. The visibility on the ocean course was limited to a little more than a mile.

The race committee instructed all boats at the starting line to return to port. The fog was so dense that two large yachts collided in the harbor but were only slightly damaged.

VOTERS OF 3 STATES FACE WET, DRY ROW

Five Million Citizens Vote in

NATION WATCHES

Question of Bay State Stand
Arouses Interest.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Five million voters in New York, Wisconsin and Massachusetts went to the polls today in the last of the state primaries to choose party
November's elections. A Republican state convention in Connecticut and a Democratic state conclave in Delaware added diversity to the day's political developments but the senatorial race in Massachusetts held the center of interest. Prohibition was the rampant issue in the old Bay state and in Delaware too, but out in Wisconsin the LaFollette family battled again on their favorite issue of insurgency.

The Massachusetts contests attracted national interest because William Butler, friend of former President Coolidge and former Republican national chairman, sought the Republican senatorial nomination. Running as a dry, Butler was opposed by Eben S. Draper, former State Senator, who is wet, and Andrew J. "Boss" Gillet, mayor of Newburyport, Butler's two wet opponents made prohibition the outstanding issue, so far as the national politicians are concerned.

The Democratic senatorial contests in the Bay State presented the same sort of race.

Marcus A. Coolidge, former mayor of Fitchburg, a wet, was opposed by former Governor Eugene N.
Foss, a dry, as the outstanding candidates, although Peter J. Joy-cezen, a manufacturer, former district Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, of Boston, and Joseph F. O'Connell, former representative, were also in the race.

WETS, DRIES FIGHT
Wets and dries alike watched the two races to determine whether Massachusetts is still wet, following its vote for Alfred E.
Smith in 1928. Some wet leaders predicted both Draper and Coolidge would win, but the dries insisted it was more likely that Butler and Foss would be nominated, thus indicating a friendly trend for prohibition in the old Bay State.

The other out and out wet and dry fight was being staged at the Democratic convention in Delaware. Former Senator Thomas F.
Bayard, a dripping wet, looked like a winner over Josiah Marvel backed by dries. If Bayard does get the nomination, Delaware will stage another wet and dry battle in November, since the Republicans there already have nominated Senator Daniel O. Hastings, who has anti-saloon league support.

In New York, prohibition played a part in some of the congressional campaigns. There, as in Massachusetts and Wisconsin, wets and dries will watch the outcome of the primary nominations for the house.
Thus far, the wets have defeated some outstanding dries in the primaries and they hope to get even more seats in the elections.

Rainfall Greeted Gentry Brothers Show Here Today

town from Coshocton today and was given a rather wet greeting

and the parade was not started until after noon.

The site of the show was transferred at the last minute from the Mason lot in N. Court-st to "The Commons" in the south end of the

MILTON SILLS, ACTOR, IS DEAD

While Playing Tennis At His Home.

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Sept.
16.—Death today had cut short the career of Milton Sills, widely known stage and motion picture actor.

Sills, for years noted for his realistic portrayal of virile types, succumbed to a heart attack on the tennis court of his home in Brentwood Heights last yesterday.

Shortly after 5 o'clock, the actor, accompanied by his wife, Doris Kenyon, herself a featured film player, and his daughter Dorothy, had gone to the court for a few sets of tennis. It was to have been not so much a game as it was a constitutional for Sills. He was conversing from a nervous and physical breakdown.

After the game had progressed for about 30 minutes Sills slumped slowly to the ground without a word. Servants carried him into the house and physicians were summoned. The famous actor was dead when they arrived.

Sills had not regained consciousness after his collapse.

Filmmaker first drew Sills in 1914.
At the time, he was appearing on the legitimate stage after abandoning academic career as a graduate student, instructor and fellow in philosophy at the University of Chicago.

His theatrical career saw Sills rise to leading roles on Broadway 20 years ago.

Miss Kenyon was Sills' second wife. He was married the first time in 1910 to Gladys Wynne of London, Eng. They were divorced and in 1926 he was married to Miss Kenyon.

Pay Respects.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 16.—Major Dieudonne Coste, the peace-time ace of France, and Lieut. Maurice Bellonte, his companion on their epochal non-stop flight from Paris to New York, today were winging their way to Cleveland to pay respectful homage to the memory of their friend, the late Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, and to receive the tribute of an admiring city.

The French airmen were expected to arrive at Cleveland airport at three p. m. in their red sequiplane, Question Mark, which carried them across the Atlantic.
They will be met by city officials and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Cleveland chapter of the National Aeronautic Association and the Cleveland Advertising club.

Official welcome to the flyers will be made after a triumphal procession to City Hall, where Mayor John D. Marshall and other city officials and officials of civic organizations will extend the city's appreciation of the historic east-to-west flight.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION UNDER WAY

COLUMBUS, Sept. 16.—"So long as they remain upon the statute books, it shall be my purpose to enforce all laws, without regard to politics, or hope of re-election."

With these words, former Congressman George White, Marietta, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, disposed of the question of
"law enforcement" while addressing the Democratic state convention here this afternoon.

"My campaign is in the hands of the people," continued White. "No special privilege interests are supporting my candidacy. My campaign will be conducted along the same economical lines that have characterized by own business affairs, and will be indicative of the kind of government I propose to give to the people."

White declared that "the greatest need today in government is to get back to fundamental principles."

"In my judgment, there is one state issue that completely overshadows all others—taxation. Next in importance and inseparably connected with taxation is the astonishing growth of government expenditures by the state and many local subdivisions. I believe that administrative state government expenditures can be materially reduced and I propose to see that this is done."

He characterized the taxation situation in Ohio as "alarming."
"The time is here when taxes must be reduced. The farmers are prostrate; business and industry is at a standstill."

"Perhaps the most important matter to arise in connection with taxation is the question of readjustment of the rates of taxation, due to the so-called classification amendment (to the Ohio constitution), work on which has already started, by the taxation committee appointed by the governor."

"I shall insist that those agonizing this vital question shall keep faith and make substantial reductions in taxes assessed against the farmer, the home owner, and devise a plan that will actually bring out for taxation the millions of dollars worth of intangible property now escaping taxation."

"Additional burdens shall not be saddled on the farmer and home owner who are now, and have been for years, paying more than their just share of the tax burden. Neither shall extra burden be placed on the wage earner, receiving his bread by the sweat of his brow; and the salaried workers in the cities, struggling for a decent living. The full power of the veto axe will be used to prevent such a blunder and robbery."

Designating "the rapid growth state expenditures" as the "second important issue in this campaign," White said that "the present state administration, with all its advance and prolific promises, is a mere hollow shell, filled without and empty within. The state characteristics are shown by the senior Cooper to devote the state while his subordinates play politics and raid the state treasury."

ago, taxpayers were promised often and vociferously a 'business administration,' together with a marked decrease in the cost of government. Not only these promises failed utterly of fulfillment, and the confidence of the taxpayers been betrayed, but we now observe on every hand the most wasteful and extravagant administration in the state's history. Details and instances are many."

White charged that "secretly, salaries of political favorites" have been "raised to inordinate amounts."

Dealing with the subject of public welfare, White referred to the recent holocaust at Ohio penitentiary when 321 persons lost their lives. He accused Republicans of delaying the development of the London prison farm.

"Ohio owes its institutional wards an opportunity to be rehabilitated so that they may become useful members of society.
The term 'correctional institutions' is a misnomer unless we diligently devote our best thought
and effort to redeeming, insofar as is humanly possible, the manhood and womanhood incarcerated in these institutions."

Adoption of a state platform and the delivery of speeches by party nominates and unsuccessful candidates featured the Democratic state convention here this afternoon.

The delegates were called to order at 2 p. m. in the ballroom of the Desher-Wallick hotel by Henry G. Brunner, Mansfield, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee.

The convention was unique in that a formal "keynote" speech was dispensed with. Another distinction lies in the fact that the platform was adopted before nominees for office began speaking.

ley home in the automobile which she has been accustomed to drive.
However, no one saw her leave, he said.

"I don't know whether she is dead or alive," Beery said. "And I am really worried."

They were married in July, 1910, in Boston and have one son, Noah III.

WHITE STRESSES LAW ENFORCEMENT

Arrested In Louisville, Ky., On

DENIES MURDER

Also Captured.

Ted Geisking, arrested here Monday as a vagrant, today admitted his identity to George Williams, Chicago detective.

However, Geisking denied that he murdered Alfred J. Lingle, Chi-

fred "Jake" Lingle, Chicago Tri-
ties.

erald and Stanley Harris.

license plates.

saloon there until the assassination of Lingle. The saloon was abruptly closed when Lingle was killed and its owner vanished.

The arrest of the supposed Geisking and his brother led to the arrest of two women, one them iden-
Harris. They were taken in cus-
murder.

which was identical to the berti-lion measurements of the prisoner. The record was that of one
on a charge of operating a liquor truck.

Geisking's real identification
$250 were produced to satisfy the
booked on the murder charge.

ambushed four liquor hi-jackers.
battle and escaped while his companions surrendered.

"Red" Forsythe, sought for sev-
tective bureau today. He satisfied
shot, according to Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney.

Although released from suspicion in the slaying of the Tribune
fore Municipal Judge John H.
Lyle, known for his stiff sentences to gangsters.

band and father, while he is in jail for making home brew. DeBlock was fined $500 and sentenced to serve six months behind the bars. Unless he can raise the money to pay the fine, he will have to work it out at the rate of $1.50 a day. Now a move is on to take away his children on the ground that a home where the prohibition law is violated is not a fit one for children.

Father, Eagerly Darned, Rescues

Two But Is Unable To

small children were burned to
severely burned in rescuing them from their flaming home south of this city.

and David Martin, 4.

Clarence Martin, 32, carried Juanita, 9, and Irving, 11, from the burning home. Both he and Juanita were reported badly burned.

smoke and flames.

nastic equipment is a fine recreation hall. The club rooms are

B. Petty, 36, of Covington, Ky.
Petty was injured fatally when the car in which he was riding with Wahle skidded and crashed into two other machines here.

Officials.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 16.—The
third of the international yacht
rock V was officially called off to-
and generally unfavorable weather.

lack of wind precluded any contest
more than a mile.

turn to port. The fog was so dense
damaged.

VOTERS OF 3 STATES FACE WET, DRY ROW

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,

million voters in New York, Wis-
can state convention in Connecticut and a Democratic state con-
to the day's political developments
chusetts held the center of inter-
again on their favorite issue of insurgency.

President Coolidge and former Re-
the Republican senatorial nomina-
was opposed by Eben S. Draper, former State Senator, who is wet, and Andrew J. "Bossy" Gilhis, major of Newburyport. But-
concerned.

the same sort of race.

or of Fitchburg, a wet, was opposed
by former Governor Eugene N.
Foss, a dry, as the outstanding
candidates although Peter J. Joy-czen, a manufacturer, former dis-
of Boston, and Joseph F. O'Connell, former representative, were
also in the race.

Wets and dries alike watched
the two races to determine whether Massachusetts is still wet, following its vote for Alfred E.
Smith in 1928. Some wet leaders
predicted both Draper and Cool-
ler and Foss would be nominated,
thus indicating a friendly trend
for prohibition in the old Bay State.

Democratic convention in Delaware. Former Senator Thomas F.
a winner over Josiah Marvel backed by dries. If Bayard does get
the nomination, Delaware will
in November, since the Republicans there already have nominated Senator Daniel O. Hastings,
port.

a part in some of the congression-
primary nominations for the house.
some outstanding dries in the pri-
more seats in the elections.

FOSTER RITES

Funeral services for Mrs.
Martha Pyle Foster, 77, who died at Berger hospital early Sunday, were held Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the Kingston Methodist Episcopal church with Dr. Franklin Mc-Elfresh officiating. Burial was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery by M. S.
Rinehart. Pall bearers were Homer Fullen, W. H. Plum, Robert Walters, Dr. G. S. Corne, Frank Heffner and H. E. Yapple.

C. & O. SUED

The Chesapeake & Ohio railroad was made defendant in a suit for $10,000 filed in federal court at Columbus by James P. Price, Scioto-twp, Ross-co. Price charges that during the construction of a right-of-way near his property by the railroad caused his land to be flooded and damaged.

LANCASTER.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed barn on farm of

Gentry Brothers circus came to town from Coshocton today and
was given a rather wet greeting when Jupe Pluvius dropped bucket after bucket of water onto this fair city. The show arrived in the city, in its trucks, rather late
until after noon.

ferred at the last minute from the
city.

The afternoon performance was given at 3 o'clock with the even-

His Home.

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Sept.
16.—Death today had cut short
actor.

Brentwood Heights late yesterday.

Shortly after 5 o'clock, the actor,
player, and his daughter Dorothy,
was convalescing from a nervous and physical breakdown.

for about 30 minutes Sills slumped slowly to the ground without a word. Servants carried him into
was dead when they arrived.

ness after his collapse.

Filmfod first drew Sills in 1914.
At the time, he was appearing on
Chicago.

20 years ago.

London, Eng. They were divorced
and in 1926 he was married to Miss Kenyon.

ACES TO VISIT HERRICK TOMB

Coste and Bellonte Wing Way Toward Cleveland To Pay Respects.

Dieudonne Coste, the peace-time
epochal non-stop flight from Paris
to New York, today were winging
spective homage to the memory of their friend, the late Ambassador
the tribute of an admiring city.

at three p. m. in their red sesqui-
ried them across the Atlantic.
They will be met by city officials
and representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Cleveland chapter of the National Aeronau-
tic Association and the Cleveland Advertising club.

to-west flight.

gram. Marion has been on WAU several times in the past few weeks and his programs are becoming very popular.

COLUMBUS, Sept. 16.—"So long
as they remain upon the statute

With these words, former Congressman George White, Marietta,
nee, disposed of the question of
tion here this afternoon.

special privilege interests are supporting my candidacy. My cam-

est need today in government is to get back to fundamental principles."

ishing growth of government ex-

this is done."

at a standstill."

justment of the rates of taxation,
due to the so-called classification amendment (to the Ohio constitution), work on which has already
appointed by the governor."

"I shall insist that those sponsoring this vital question shall

their just share of the tax burden. Neither shall extra burden be placed on the wage earner, receiving his bread by the sweat of
veto will be used to prevent such a blunder and robbery."

important issue in this campaign,"
administration, with all its self-praise and prolific promises, is a mere hollow shell, glided without and empty within. Its characteristics are efforts by Government Cooper to deceive the public while his subordinates play pol-

government. Not only these promises failed utterly of fulfillment
tails and instances are many."

tentiary when 321 persons lost
their lives. He accused Republi-
of the London prison farm.

come useful members of society.

nominates and unsuccessful candi-
state convention here this afternoon.

ry G. Brunner, Mansfield, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee.

platform was adopted before nominees for office began speaking.

BACKS WORRY BUCK MENTOR

Sola, 200-Pound Plunger; May Be Secret of Backfield Success This Year.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 16.—The attention of Coach Sam Willaman and his assistants centered today on the rounding out of a capable backfield that will back up one of the best forward walls that has represented Ohio State University on the gridiron for several years.

Some new prospects reported to the mentors yesterday as the 1930 campaign was opened with the first drill of the early training season. Eighty-three men were issued uniforms yesterday and several late-comers were expected to report within the week, boosting the squad to about 100 youthful athletes, who will seek fame and glory for the Scarlet and Gray this season.

Only one regular backfield man has returned. He is Stuart, Holcomb, of Erie, Pa., who gained fame last year as a sophomore fullback. The question of ball-toters is a serious one. Willaman hopes he has the answer in five sophomores who show exceptional promise.

Holcomb may be replaced at the fullback berth by a fellow townsman, Olavi Sola, a 200-pounder who looks like the plunging fullback that is needed.

Sola looked good in yesterday's short practice sessions. He gave an excellent exhibition of ball-carrying.

Joe Hoffer, former Youngstown South high school star and a former team-mate of Wesley Fester, Ohio State's All-American end, is a potential backfield threat. Hoffer is a heady field general and a capable broken-field runner. He is battling for the quarterback post.

Another quarter who saw some service last season is Joe Benis, of

ROBINS DRUB CINCL. REDS

Better: Baseball Than Was Played Needed To Cop Pennant; Cubs Lose.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—While everyone is standing on roofs telling about this great Brooklyn ball club, if you don't mind we will take you by the hand today and dash a little cold water all around.
In fact while the Cardinals may not win the National League pennant we rather like them for the series with Brooklyn and it looks as though the Robins will have to play better ball to defeat the Cardinals than they did yesterday even though they lowered away the spineless Reds 13 to 5. It was the Robins 11th straight win and the Reds 11th straight loss, the latter near-record giving the idea that maybe the Robins were not any better than the Reds were bad.

For our first pail of water we will use Glenn Wright's homer that didn't count. The Robins captain hit a long one into the left center bleachers. Herman stopped and watched the ball, while Wright ran right past him and was called out for doing just that. Pail No.
2 dashes all over a play in which Gink Hendrick ran back and touched third after Herman hit a single. Hendrick thinking the lines had been caught. Hendrick actually ran home then from third and scored while the Reds slept on so peacefully, but he hardly could have done that against the Cardinals.

Lefty O'Doul homered in the openers and the Phillies beat out Chicago 12 to 11 but the Cubs snatched the finale 6 to 4 with Bush spacing the Phils' nine clouds. Hack Wilson homered No.
50.

Jones and Burke, Washington pitchers, were not much but an improvement over four tried by the White Sox and the Senators eked out a victory, 14 to 9.

Goslin whacked a four baser to win for the Browns over Boston, 3 to 1, but the Ruddy Sox bagged the tea tilt in the 11th when Oliver scored on Blue's wild throw.
The score was 2 to 1.

Babe Ruth hit thrice, once for a near homer, the Yankees humbling Detroit 5 to 3.

Other clubs were not scheduled.

Circleville high school football team was given a solar plexus blow Monday when it was learned that Frank Dunlap, husky tackle and a veteran from last year would not play any more because of parental objection.

Dunlap, who lives in the country, was a stalwart in the line last year and looked mighty good in his first game this fall against Walnut. His absence will be keenly felt in the Washington C. H. game in that city Friday.

Dutch Hoffman, Coach Heiber-holz' other first-string tackle, did not practice Monday evening because of sickness which he suffered Saturday after the opening game played Friday.

Hoffman was hit in the head during a practice last week and his sickness was thought to have been caused when he was again struck. He was expected to be back in his accustomed place this evening.

A pass defense which functioned in nice shape was stressed by Coach Herberholz at the Monday

Rev. H. N. Brobst, pastor of St.
Matthew's Lutheran church, Columbus. After the delegates joined in singing "The Star-Spangled Banner," the report of the standing committee on permanent organization was submitted.

Brunner then introduced Attorney Thomas J. Duffy, Columbus, as permanent chairman of the convention. Following a brief speech by Duffy, reports of standing committees on credentials, rules and order of business, and on platform and resolutions were presented. The delegates then adopted the platform which will constitute the foundation upon which the Democratic candidates for political offices will wage their campaign for election in Ohio this fall.

Former Congressman George White, Marietta, was the first of the Democratic nominees to speak.
INTRODUCE CANDIDATES
Chairman Duffy then introduced other state candidates, after short talks were made by a number of unsuccessful candidates who sought nominations at the Democratic state primary last month, including former State Representative Stephen M. Young, of Cleveland, who was a candidate for governor, and W. W. Durbin, Kenton; Charles V. Truax, Bucyrus; John McSweeney, Wooster, and George S. Myers, Cleveland, all of whom were aspirants for the nomination for United States senator.

Former Congressman Robert J.
Bulkeley, Cleveland, Democratic nominee for United States senator, then addressed the convention.

The singing of "America" by the delegates immediately preceded the adjournment of the convention.
Before the noon hour, the delegates caucused, by congressional districts, in various parts of the hotel, and selected the personal of the four standing committees. Each congressional district selected one member of each committee.

The standing committees then held separate sessions and prepared their reports for submission to the convention.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—While everyone is standing on roofs telling about this great Brooklyn ball club, if you don't mind we will take you by the hand today and dash a little cold water all around. In fact while the Cardinals may not win the National League pennant we rather like them for the series with Brooklyn and it looks as though the Robins will have to play better ball to defeat the Cardinals than they did yesterday even though they lowered away the spineless Reds 13 to 5. It was the Robins 11th straight win and the Reds 11th straight loss, the latter near-record giving the idea that maybe the Robins were not any better than the Reds were bad.

For our first pair of water we will use Glenn Wright's homer that didn't count. The Robins captain hit a long one into the left center bleachers. Herman stopped and watched the ball, while Wright ran right past him and was called out for doing just that. Paul No. 2 dashes all over a play in which Gink Hendrick ran back and touched third after Herman hit a single. Hendrick thinking the liner had been caught. Hendrick actually ran home then from third and scored while the Reds slept on so peacefully, but he hardly could have done that against the Cardinals.

Lefty O'Doul homered in the opener and the Phillies beat out Chicago 12 to 11 but the Cubs snatched the finale 6 to 4 with Bush spacing the Phil's nine clouts. Hack Wilson homered No. 50.

Jonner and Burke, Washington pitchers, were not much but an improvement over four tried by the White Sox and the Senators eked out a victory, 14 to 9.

Goslin whacked a four baser to win for the Browns over Boston, 3 to 1, but the Ruddy Sox bagged the tea tilt in the 11th when Oliver scored on Blue's wild throw. The score was 2 to 1.

Babe Ruth hit thrice, once for a near homer, the Yankees humbling Detroit 5 to 3.

Rev. H. N. Brobst, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church, Columbus. After the delegates joined in singing "The Star-Spangled Banner," the report of the standing committee on permanent organization was submitted.

Bruner then introduced Attorney Thomas J. Duffy, Columbus, as permanent chairman of the convention. Following a brief speech by Duffy, reports of standing committees on credentials, rules and order of business, and on platform and resolutions were presented. The delegates then adopted the platform which will constitute the foundation upon which the Democratic candidates for political offices will wage their campaign for election in Ohio this fall.

Former Congressman George White, Marietta, was the first of the Democratic nominees to speak.

INTRODUCE CANDIDATES

Chairman Duffy then introduced other state candidates, after short talks were made by a number of unsuccessful candidates who sought nominations at the Democratic state primary last month, including former State Representative Stephen M. Young, of Cleveland, who was a candidate for governor, and W. W. Durbin, Pickrel was unable to attend Kenton; Charles V. Truax, Bucyrus; John McSweeney, Wooster, and George S. Myers, Cleveland, all of whom were aspirants for the nomination for United States senator.

Former Congressman Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland, Democratic nominee for United States senator, then addressed the convention.

The singing of "America" by the delegates immediately preceded the adjournment of the convention.

Before the noon hour, the delegates caucused, by congressional districts, in various parts of the hotel, and selected the personal of the four standing committees. Each congressional district selected one member of each committee.

The standing committees then held separate sessions and prepared their reports for submission to the convention.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET

The Democratic State ticket comprises: For Governor, George White, Marietta, for Lieutenant governor, William G. Pickrel, Dayton; for secretary of state, John Henry Newman, Columbus; for treasurer of state, Joseph T. Ferguson, Lancaster; for attorney general, Attorney M. Ray Allison, Columbus; for United States Senator, Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland; for associate justices of the Ohio supreme court, Will P. Stephenson, West Union, and Charles Hubbell, Cleveland.

the convention. In a telegram, addressed to Bruner, he declared that "the earnest citizens of our state will turn down an administration that has increased government in his address said that "this course alone offers a change from depression, extravagance and gang politics."

tal expense by $5,000,000 in its first year, nullified the budget law, throttled motion pictures, emphasizing the Ohio prison condition, played politics with conservation and welfare work, and now is endeavoring to burden its own party and Ohio government by promoting the leadership of the remnants of the discredited political machine which Cincinnati Republicans and Democrats have thrown from their city hall."

Re-adjustments of Hawley-Smoot Tariff Expected Soon Say Chiefs

EXAMINE RATES

Other Countries Change Rates Almost Overnight.

By Robert S. Thornburgh, I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—In calling a special session of parliament to boost tariff duties, following increases regarded as harmful in the American Smoot-Hawley bill, Canada is acting hastily without awaiting readjustments of so-called inequities in rates which may be made by the newly organized tariff commission, American officials declared today.

According to the view here the government will set up a scientific semi-judicial body in its new tariff commission to administer the flexible provisions of the Smoot-Hawley bill in a manner which may remove some of its features objectionable to the Canadian government. Any action in the nature of large increases in Canadian rates or entering into a tariff war before the tariff commission has had the opportunity to survey the situation scientifically was referred to as "stupid." It was claimed that the tariff would be examined in a new atmosphere and that the assumption that the commission will perform as in the past "is unjust."

Officials thought it probable that the commission would first examine the lumber and agricultural rates, both of which would react to the disadvantage of Canada. While all raw lumber and pulpwood is admitted to the country duty-free certain manufactured lumber is on the duty list. Certain agricultural commodities also are dutiable.

"In other words," a high official declared, "The tariff will be examined from the economic rather than the political standpoint when the commission gets into its studies."

"After the fall election consideration from the economic, not the political standpoint, will be possible."

This official said that Canada should remember that the United States, as well as the Dominion, has its political problems and economic affairs. The information given was that some of the tariff schedules were established on the basis of politics as approaching elections always push economics more or less to the background.

With the exception of the United States virtually all countries can and do change their tariff schedules overnight. It was declared that in this country practically alone, there is afforded the opportunity for importers and exporters to appear before legislative committees to state their cases and only after long consideration are the rates enacted.

The tariff commission has been reorganized to study questions from a scientific and economic standpoint, just as the interstate commerce commission considers problems of railway and other transportation regulation.

This will present an opportunity to divorce the establishment of tariff rates, under the flexible provisions, from both politics and diplomacy, and thus place the schedules on a basis that will react to the benefit of both domestic and international trade, local officials said.

Entertains Thousands Every Week

In the past few months, while we have watched, wondering, a new art has been born. Before the play-going world quite awakened to this change, it saw that the living, speaking drama had escaped from its traditional arena beyond the footlights into a theater as vast and all-encompassing as life itself! Talking pictures have been born and are now the public's choice of finest entertainment. Circleville can be justly proud of its three theaters, excellently equipped to show talking pictures, which are entertaining thousands of people each week.

Culture Loses

BE it understood once for all that golf, even miniature golf, is all right. Golf at its largest is a grand sport and a healthful exercise, and golf at its smallest is a diverting game which does good by taking people's minds off their troubles. At the same time—

When an opera house is turned into a pee-wee golf course, it is something to think about for as much as half a minute. That is what is happening to the Auditorium Theater in Chicago, long the home of grand opera and other cultural enterprises. A six-hole course is being laid out in the foyer and eighteen-hole course on the main floor.

That will pay better than opera did, more's the pity. The Chicago

Civic Opera Company, which used to be housed in the Auditorium, ran into the red more than half a million dollars last year.

It is quite possible that grand opera would pay as well as petty sport if it were provided for the populace at comparable prices.

The experiment might be worth trying in this country. It has succeeded pretty well abroad; and we needn't assume that taste and culture are any higher there than here.

Some time we hope to see a capacious home for opera and other musical festivals built on a toy golf course, offering the best of the world's musical art at popular prices.

A conservative is any man who feels practically nude without a vest.

Public Chemistry

THE American Chemical society proposes to popularize the knowledge of chemistry. At its recent annual meeting it launched a national program for that purpose, emphasizing particularly the education of women in the relation of chemistry to the home.

A special study course in chemistry has been worked out for use in women's club. It is non-technical, but covers 12 topics in the general field of America chemistry.

Among these are "Water, Sanitation and Medicine," "feeding the family," "fuel for fire and for force," "dinner plates and drain pipes," "electro-chemistry and the kitchen." An effort is to be made, too, to improve the quality of chemistry teaching in the high schools.

There is no question of the value of such a movement. If it is kept in the field of practical education and not mixed up at all with any commercial propaganda, it should do much to promote general intelligence and understanding in a field that has developed so rapidly in recent years as to seem almost a realm of magic and miracles.

In spite of all the law-breaking, the law seldom gets an even break in court.

Gas

A FEW years ago there was a prevalent impression that the natural gas supply of the country had played out. Much had been used up. Countless trillions of cubic feet had been allowed to blow off uselessly into the air in the oil fields. Petroleum men in remote fields regarded gas as a useless and troublesome by-product.

Suddenly this situation has changed. Gas is valued as highly as oil. What gas remains is being conserved and held for human use. Pipe lines are spreading in a vast network over the country, running in some cases for 1,000 miles or more. There is new appreciation of the fact that this mysterious mineral gas is the finest fuel in the world.

There are big investments made in it. Remains resources are found to be greater than was suspected. Artificial gas, too, enjoys a boom, produced as it often is, as a by-product of industrial processes, and mixed with the natural product.

So we find an economic bulletin of a big New York bank saying "It is predicted that gas is to become the common fuel of the future, for industrial as well as household purposes."

One of the most hopeful things in the present industrial situation is the stimulus given the steel industry by orders for gas pipe.

Better late than never. But if we only had available the gas that has been wasted! How many other natural resources shall we learn to appreciate so tardily?

Let the first frost come.

Then you can put up the lawn mower and just sit and look at the grass and sneer.

"The SEA BRIDE"

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE ROMANCE OF AN EVENTFUL WHALING CRUISE

CHAPTER XXXIV.

"WHAT is it, Noll?" Faith asked. "Why are you—"

He lifted a clenched hand over his head; it trembled there for an instant, then came slowly down. He frowned open the door to the main cabin, and went out and left her standing there.

Faith watched him go, perplexity in her eyes. Dan'l joined him, and they went on deck together.

They came to the Solander Grounds with matters still in this wise—Brander much with the crew; Noll Wing rotting in his chair in the cabin; Faith gaining strength of soul with every day; Dan'l playing upon Noll, upon Roy, upon all those about him to his own ends.

The Solander received them roughly; they passed the tall Solander Rock and cruised westward, keeping it in sight. There was another whaling-ship, almost hulled down north of them, and the smoke that clouded her told the Sally she had her try-pots going. Dan'l Tobey was handling the vessel, and he chose to work up that way; but before they were near the other craft, the masthead men sighted whales—spouts all about, blossoming like flowers upon the blue water.

Noll had regained a little of his strength when they came upon the grounds; he took the ship, and bade Dan'l and the other mates lower and single out a lone whale.

"They'll all be bulls, heresabouts," he said. "Big ones, too. We'll take one at a spell, and be thankful for that."

The whale was, as Noll had predicted, a bull. Dan'l made the kill, a ridiculously easy one. The vast creature lifted a little in the water at the first iron; he swam slowly southward; but there was no fight in him when they pulled up and drove him the lance.

An hour after lowering the whale was alongside the Sally—a monstrous creature, not far short of the colossal Cap'n Wing had slain. He was made fast to the flukechain bit, and the cutting in began forthwith. That, too, on Noll Wing's order.

Now the first task when cutting in a whale is to work off the head; and that is no small job. For the whale has no neck at all, unless a certain crease in his thick blubber may be called a neck. The spades of the mates, keen-edged, and mounted on long poles with which they jab downward from the cutting stage, chock into the blubber and draw a deep cut along the chosen line. The carcass is laboriously turned, the process is repeated. Thus on, till at last the huge mass can be torn free.

Before the work on this whale was half done, it became apparent that a gale was brewing. Cross swells, angling together at the mouth of Foveaux Strait, kicked up a drunken sea that made the Sally pitch and roll at the same time—a combination not relished by any one. Nevertheless, the head was cut off and hauled alongside by cutting up.

This work had taken the better part of the night; and with the dawn, there arose a whine in the wind that sang a constant high note in the taut rigging. With the Sally pitching and rolling drunk-ily, the 15-ton junk was got off the head and hoisted aboard, while every strand of rigging creaked and protested at the terrible strain. The blubber was coming in; but the wind was increasing.

In the end the Sally had to let go what remained of her catch and run for it, losing thereby the huge "case" full of spermaceti, and a full half of the blubber.

The weeks that followed were repetitions of this first experience, with such capricious modifications as the gales and the sea chose to arrange. They killed many big whales; some they lost altogether, some they harvested. They fell into the way of running for port with their kill as soon as the whale was alongside, rather than risk the storms in the open. It was hard and steady work for all hands; and as the men had grumbled at ill luck when they sighted no whales, so now they grumbled because their luck was overgood.

Dan'l found them easy working, ready for his hands; and by a word dropped now and then through these busy times, he led them in the way he wished them to go. He never let them forget, for one thing, the ambergris beneath the cabin. When they grumbled, he reminded them it was there, as a rich reward for all their labors. He reminded them, at the same time, that Brander claimed it. Neither did he let the men forget that which he wished them to believe of Faith and Brander. By indirections, by words with Roy which he took care they should overhear, by reproofs for chance-caught gossip he kept the matter alive in their minds, so that they began to look at Faith sideways when she appeared on deck.

Brander was not blind to this, and if he had been blind, Mauger's one eye would have seen for him. He knew the matter in the minds of the men, but he could not be sure that Dan'l was putting it there. Nevertheless, he spoke to Dan'l of it one day. It was so with first time since Brander came aboard that he and Dan'l had had more than a passing word alone.

Brander made an opportunity to take the mate aside. He held Dan'l's eyes with his own and said steadily:

"Mr. Tobey, there's ugly talk among the men aboard here that should be put a stop to."

Dan'l looked surprised; he asked what Brander meant. Brander said openly:

"They're coupling my name with that of the captain's wife. You've heard them. It should be ended."

"I know," Dan'l said amiably. "It's very bad. But that is a thing you can't stop from the after deck, Mr. Brander."

"That's true. So what do you think should be done in the matter?"

The mate waved his hand. "It's not my affair, Mr. Brander. It's not me whose name is coupled with Faith's."

Brander nodded, his face hot. "Suppose I go forward again," he said. "I'll make some occasion to commit a fault; Cap'n Wing can send me forward and put Silva, or another, in my place."

Dan'l looked at Brander sharply, and he shook his head.

"The men would be saying then that it was because of this matter you were put out of the cabin."

"I suppose so."

"What would you suggest?"

Brander asked, his eyes holding Dan'l's.

Dan'l seemed to weigh the matter.

"How if you were to leave the ship completely?" he inquired.

Brander's eyes narrowed; and Dan'l, in spite of himself, turned away his head. If Brander left the ship—

There was no other man aboard whom he need fear when the time should come. If Brander left the ship—

Brander's eyes narrowed; he studied Dan'l; and after a little he laughed harshly, and nodded his head as if assured of something which he had doubted before.

"No," he said. "No. I'll not leave the Sally." He could never do that; there might come the day when Faith would have to look to him. "No; I'll stick aboard."

Dan'l's hopes had leaped high; they fell low. But he hid his chagrin.

"You are right," he said. "That is a deal to ask just to stop the idle chatter of the men. Best stay—it will be forgotten."

Brander turned abruptly away, to crush down a sudden flood of anger that had clenched his fists. He knew Dan'l now beyond doubt. He guessed the mate's eagerness to be rid of him. Dan'l should not have his way in this so easily.

Dan'l's own eyes had been opened by this talk with Brander. The mate's heart had not yet formed his full design; he was working evil without any further plan than to bring harm and ruin. But Brander's suggestion, the possibility that Brander might leave the ship, had revealed to Dan'l in a single flash how matters would go. He saw in his two hands if Brander were gone, Noll Wing was nothing; old Tichel he could swing; Willis Cox was a boy; the crew were asleep. Only Brander stood out against him; only Brander must be beaten down to clear his path. With Brander gone—

Dan'l set himself the task of eliminating Brander. He thought of many plans. A little mishap in the whaling, a kinked line, a flying spade, an ugly mischance—

These could not be arranged; he could only hope for the luck of them; but that need not prevent him working to help out the fates. Not openly; he could not do that without setting Brander on guard. And Brander on guard was doubly to be feared. Dan'l remembered an ancient phrase, the advice of a philosopher to a rebellious soul. "When you strike at a king, you must kill him!" It was so with Brander; he must be destroyed at a blow—utterly.

Noll was a tool that might serve; Noll would strike, if he could be roused to the full measure of wrath. Dan'l worked with Noll, discreetly, in hidden words, appearing always to defend.

Brander and Faith meant no harm, so said. They were friends; more, Dan'l assured Noll of this, again and again; and he took care that his assurances should not convince.

"Why must you always be defending Faith?" Noll stormed at him, one night. "Why do you stand by her?"

"I've always known Faith, sir," Dan'l said humbly. "I don't want to see her do anything—that is, I don't want to see you harsh with her, sir."

And Noll fell into a brooding silence that pleased Dan'l mightily. But still the captain did not strike at Brander.

Dan'l reminded the captain that Brander still gave much time to the crew; he played on that string, still hoping that Noll might be roused to overwhelming rage. But Dan'l's poisoned soul was losing its gift of seeing into the hearts of men.

The old Noll would have reacted to his words as he hoped. This new Noll was another matter; this Noll, aging and rotting with drink, was led by Dan'l's sly talk to hate Brander—and to fear him. His fear of Brander and of the one-eyed man obsessed even his sober mind. He would never dare seek to crush Brander openly; Faith he might strike, but not the man.

In the end, even Dan'l perceived this; he cast about for a new instrument, and found it in the man Slatter.

Slatter had crossed Brander's path, to his sorrow. The loose-tongued man dropped some word of Faith which Brander heard, and Brander remembered. He made pretext of Slatter's next small fault at work to pommel the man unmercifully. No word of Faith in this; he thrashed Slatter for idling at the windlass when a blanket strip was being hoisted, and for impudence. Slatter was his enemy thereafter.

BOOK OF THE WEEK AT CITY LIBRARY

The most important addition to the Circleville Public Library, in many months, is the long awaited volume on "The Mound-Builders" by Henry C. Shetrone, director of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society.

"Who were the Mound-builders? Where did they come from, and when? Why did they build mounds? What are the facts regarding these mysterious people now known to have flourished in undiscovered America while Europe was still in the Dark Ages; who, while their fellow humans in the Old World were laying the foundations of modern fellow humans in the Old World were laying the foundations of modern nations, were developing a civilization in many respects unique and highly important?" Only in recent years have scientists succeeded in unraveling the threads of the romantic story of the Mound-builders, but now the story is told so that all can read and understand.

While the works of the Mound-builders covered a large section of North America, the most early noted, and still most noteworthy, are those of the Scioto Valley. The circle and the square, on the site of our own town, and which gave to it its name, were the first to be described by early explorers. Mr. Shetrone gives many facts of great local interest and mentions the work of some of our own townspeople. Mr. Wittich's map of Circleville in 1836, Caleb Atwater's archaeological and historical activities, reference to Miss May Lowe's centennial ode "Four Cycles", give a personal contact that awakens interest in the book from cover to cover.

MINISTER PLAN NEXT SESSION

The convention program included addresses and discussions on problems ministers meet in every day life and work. The program committee, led by Rev. Charles W. Brashares, Dayton, who is chairman of the conference, assigned subjects for addresses during the meeting.

WELL, WELL—HERE'S FALL AGAIN

As far as news was concerned, here was a laugh. Just as if we didn't know it. Of course, we aren't up on all the scientific words, but we can see the signs of a changing season. Autumnal Equinox, your grandmother, Fall is here again.

Take a look around, and figure out what your home or farm requires. Then come in and give our merchandise the once-over. We can't guarantee to have everything you want—but we can guarantee that what you buy here will be right, or we will make it right. And that our prices and terms are quite all right, too.

Even though it is still warm, don't overlook the repairs for your heater. Look it over right now, then place your order with us for the necessary repairs. Don't wait until wintry blasts start blowing around the corner. Do it right now and be ready.

All sorts of handy things for the kitchen are on display at our store, but what we have in mind right now is a Cracker-Jack Step Stool, a combination stool and step-ladder, $2.85. The Cracker-Jack simply cannot fold up when in use; it's locked. We also have a few steel stools, in colors, and with back support. $1.19. Our

When it comes to endurance contests, that Pyrofax Gas tank at Ralph H. White's home in New Holland, takes the cake. It's still furnishing fuel for their Estate Gas Range, and this is the end of the TWENTY-FIRST WEEK. The weekly cost is now down to 66 2-3c. Wonder how much longer it will function? Time will tell. While the other folks in New Holland are "fooling around" with gasoline and kerosene, Mrs. White is using a modern gas range, just like natural gas is used.

"Moist, warm air—upstairs, downstairs, in my lady's chamber." That's the modern Mother Goose in the homes heated by an Estate Heatrola. Shiver and shake through another Winter, if you want to, but it seems sort of silly to us, when a genuine Heatrola can be installed in your home for only $11.95 down, and easy terms on the balance.

WANTED the housewives in this community to know that a free trial on the Bee Vac Vacuum Cleaner can be had by merely phoning our store. When you see the wonderful appliance in action, and learn how easily you may own one, we'll venture to say that there will be a lot of brooms out of work during Fall house cleaning time.

A salesman was working in a new district, and orders were more

"No, sir," was the reply. "we really can't spare the time at present."

"The proof of the pudding is the eating thereof." We don't know where this phrase originated but we do know that it is the Gospel truth. When you combine a good cook with a good cook stove you have a combination that is hard to beat. For instance, take Mrs. Chas. M. Niles, Route 5, and her Estate Gas Range. Mrs. Niles took the first cake that she ever baked in a gas range to a picnic recently. She tells us that the folks there ate every crumb of that cake and asked for more. She also tells us that after she placed the baking in the oven she did not see it until she took it out. No turning nor shifting of pans when baking in an Estate.

You may think that that story we've been telling you about the White family using one tank of Pyrofax Gas for the past 21 weeks (and still going) is an unusual case. We happened to know a family in Belle Center, Ohio, that purchased a Pyrofax Gas Outfit from a friend of ours in Bellefontaine. This family, consisting of four members, uses one tank between five and six months for cooking and baking. At $14.00 per tank, this is not expensive fuel. Besides, there is no odor, nor waiting for the stove to generate.

BOOK OF THE WEEK AT CITY LIBRARY

The most important addition to the Circleville Public Library, in many months, is the long awaited volume on "The Mound-Builders" by Henry C. Shetrone, director of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society.

Ever since its first pre-publication announcement, local people have shown much interest in this book and they will not be disappointed in its reading.

"Who were the Mound-builders? Where did they come from, and when? Why did they build mounds? What are the facts regarding these mysterious people now known to have flourished in undiscovered America while Europe was still in the Dark Ages; who, while their fellow humans in the Old World were laying the foundations of modern fellow humans in the Old World were laying the foundations of modern nations, were developing a civilization in many respects unique and highly important?" Only in recent years have scientists succeeded in unraveling the threads of the romantic story of the Mound-builders, but now the story is told so that all can read and understand.

While the works of the Mound-builders covered a large section of North America, the most early noted, and still most noteworthy, are those of the Scioto Valley. The circle and the square, on the site of our own town, and which gave to it its name, were the first to be described by early explorers. Mr. Shetrone gives many facts of great local interest and mentions the work of some of our own townspeople. Mr. Wittich's map of Circleville in 1836, Caleb Atwater's archeological and historical activities, reference to Miss May Lowe's centennial ode "Four Cycles", give a personal contact that awakens interest in the book from cover to cover.

MINISTER PLAN NEXT SESSION

The Ohio pastor's conference of the Ohio Council of Churches, to be held in Columbus next Jan. 18 to 22, was arranged Monday when the convention committee met in the Chittenden Hotel in Columbus, O. The central theme for the conference will be "The Technique of an Efficient Pastor."

The convention program included addresses and discussions on problems ministers meet in every day life and work. The program committee, led by Rev. Charles W. Brashares, Dayton, who is chairman of the conference, assigned subjects for addresses during the meeting.

"MAKING FRIENDS AND HOLDING THEM

Says

GEN. SAMUEL McROBERTS

Chairman of the Board, Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company Director, Armour & Co., American Sugar Refining Co., National Surety Co., Kansas City-Southern Railway; Brig. General, A. E. F.

"Making friends and holding them, by a friendly up-to-date usefulness, is the secret of success in business. This axiom has been the guiding force in the progress of the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust Company. And it is obviously the guiding force in your business—as evidenced by your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the 'Toasting' of the LUCKY STRIKE tobaccos."

LUCKY STRIKE—the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so TOASTING removes harmful irritants that cause throat irritation and coughing. No wonder 20,679 physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating! Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray.

Consistent with its policy of laying the facts before the public, The American Tobacco Company has invited General Samuel McRoberts to review the reports of the distinguished men who have witnessed LUCKY STRIKE'S famous Toasting Process. The statement of General McRoberts appears on this page.

WELL, WELL—HERE'S FALL AGAIN

As far as news was concerned, here was a laugh. Just as if we didn't know it. Of course, we aren't up on all the scientific words, but we can see the signs of a changing season. Autumnal Equinox, your grandmother. Fall is here again.

Take a look around, and figure out what your home or farm requires. Then come in and give our merchandise the once-over. We can't guarantee to have everything you want—but we can guarantee that what you buy here will be right, or we will make it right. And that our prices and terms are quite all right, too.

All sorts of handy things for the kitchen are on display at our store, but what we have in mind right now is a Cracker-Jack Step Stool, a combination stool and stepladder. $2.85. The Cracker-Jack simply cannot fold up when in use; it's locked. We also have a few steel stools, in colors, and with back support. $1.19. Our

When it comes to endurance contests, that Pyrofax Gas tank at Ralph H. White's home in New Holland, takes the cake. It's still furnishing fuel for their Estate Gas Range, and this is the end of the TWENTY-FIRST WEEK. The weekly cost is now down to 66 2-3c. Wonder how much longer it will function? Time will tell. While the other folks in New Holland are "fooling around" with gasoline and kerosene, Mrs. White is using a modern gas range, just like natural gas is used.

"Moist, warm air—upstairs, downstairs, in my lady's chamber." That's the modern Mother Goose, in the homes heated by an Estate Heatrola. Shiver and shake through another Winter, if you want to, but it seems sort of silly to us, when a genuine Heatrola can be installed in your home for only $14.95 down, and easy terms on the balance.

WANTED—the housewives in this community to know that a free trial on the Bee Vac Vacuum Cleaner can be had by merely phoning our store. When you see this wonderful appliance in action, and learn how easily you may own one, we'll venture to say that there will be a lot of brooms out of work during Fall house cleaning time.

A salesman was working in a new district, and orders were more scarce than the proverbial hen's teeth. Entering an establishment, he presented his card, only to be informed that there was "nothing in his line today."

"Will you permit me to show you our leading articles?" begged the traveler.

"The proof of the pudding is the eating thereof." We don't know where this phrase originated but we do know that it is the Gospel truth. When you combine a good cook with a good cook stove you have a combination that is hard to beat. For instance, take Mrs. Chas. M. Niles, Route 5, and her Estate Gas Range. Mrs. Niles took the first cake that she ever baked in a gas range to a picnic recently. She tells us that the folks there ate up every crumb of that cake and asked for more. She also tells us that after she placed the baking in the oven she did not see it until she took it out. No turning nor shifting of pans when baking in an Estate.

You may think that that story we've been telling you about the White family using one tank of Pyrofax Gas for the past 21 weeks (and still going) is an unusual case. We happened to know a family in Belle Center, Ohio, that purchased a Pyrofax Gas Outfit from a friend of ours in Bellefontaine. This family, consisting of four members, uses one tank between five and six months for cooking and baking. At $14.00 per tank, this is not expensive fuel. Besides, there is no odor, nor waiting for the stove to generate.
